

IS FOOTPATHS ARE REALLY FOOTPATH?

Theoretically Footpath or the sideway is made for pedestrian where the traffic of pedestrian is more, to separate the pedestrian from the main vehicular traffic sideways are provided. But in India a different definition is footpath has to be created because here footpath is not actually used for walking but it is use for other purposes. Practically in India footpath is used for parking the vehicle, some juice shop is situated on the footpath, for collecting garbage in sewage, as a toilet, as a hotel (tapri) etc.

In some cases the this situation is not less than nightmare. As a india is developing country there is less amount of footpaths are available in country, specially in rural areas. And those which are available are use for different inimportant purpose rather than walking. In some part of the india there are footpath , but is not in the condition of one can walk on them.

As a educated people everyone should notice this important problem in community. India is our country, we are the citizens of india so it is our duty to complain about such a thing in the government offices.

Civilbuzz Report

Visit Us : Civilbuzz.yolasite.com

IS FOOTPATHS ARE REALLY FOOTPATH?

Uptill there is no official numbers about the how many percent of footpaths are present in the country. But approximately 40-45 % of country has footpath to the roads.

- Pranav Padmane,
- Head Of Civilbuzz.

*Photo credit: photos.nicolas-holzheu.com

Civilbuzz Report
Visit Us : Civilbuzz.yolasite.com